Certifications and Credentials

The following certifications and credentials are required to be explained in further detail:

CFA: Chartered Financial Analyst

Issuing Organization: CFA Institute, a global, not-for-profit association of investment professionals. The CFA Program is a graduate-level self-study program administered by the CFA Institute that combines a broad-based curriculum of investment principles with professional conduct requirements. CFA charterholders master the body of investment and financial knowledge that includes a comprehensive range of ethical, analytical, and practical investment and financial management skills. Awareness of the CFA charter has grown considerably since it was first offered in 1963 as a means for investment professionals to prove their expertise and demonstrate their commitment to integrity.

A candidate is required to pass the three qualifying exams and meet the CFA Institute's stringent guidelines of ethical standards and practices.

The CFA Program curriculum is updated every year by experts from around the world and builds on four years of professional experience that candidates are required to have. Passing the exams is a difficult feat that requires hundreds of hours of extensive study. Only one in five people who begin the program ultimately earn the right to use the designation.

The curriculum includes fundamentals like modern economics, investment strategies, and financial reporting for ethical standards. Candidates must also master advanced topics such as equity analysis, derivatives, alternative investments, and portfolio management.

This rigorous training enables a CFA charterholder to assess a client's needs and circumstances and manage a globally diverse portfolio in a rapidly changing and complex industry.

CFP®: Certified Financial Planner™

A certified financial planner™ (CFP®) refers to the certification owned and awarded by the Certified Financial Planner Board of Standards, Inc. The CFP® designation is awarded to individuals who successfully complete the CFP Board's initial and ongoing certification requirements. Individuals desiring to become a CFP® professional must take extensive exams in the areas of financial planning, taxes, insurance, estate planning and retirement.

Attaining the CFP® designation takes experience and a substantial amount of work. CFP® professionals must also complete continuing education programs each year to maintain their certification status.

A candidate desiring to earn the CFP® certification must meet requirements in four categories: education, CFP® exam, work experience and ethics. The education requirements contain two major components. First, the candidate must verify that he holds a bachelor's degree or higher from an accredited university or college recognized by the U.S. Department of Education. Second, completion of a list of specific coursework in financial planning is required by the CFP Board. Most of this second requirement, besides the capstone course, may be bypassed if the candidate holds one of many accepted financial designations, such as CFA, CPA or a higher degree in business.

All candidates are required to pass the CFP® exam, which is a computer-based exam taken by candidates over a three-day period. The exam is 170 multiple choice questions, which include stand-alone questions as well as item-set-style questions. The exam topic weights change regularly but include areas such as professional conduct and regulations, financial planning principles, education planning, risk management, insurance, investments, tax planning, retirement planning, and estate planning. The candidate is tested in these areas as well as his ability to establish client-planner relationships, gathering information, analysis, and developing, communicating, implementing and monitoring recommendations.

Candidates must prove that they have at least three years of full-time professional experience in the industry, or two years of apprenticeship in the industry, which is subject to further individualized requirements. Lastly, candidates and CFP® holders must adhere to the CFP Board's standards of professional conduct and regularly disclose information about their involvement in a variety of areas, such as criminal activity, government agency inquiries, bankruptcies, customer complaints or terminations by employers. Also, the CFP Board conducts extensive background checks on all candidates. Earning the CFP® exam depends on all the above requirements; however, the CFP Board has final discretion on whether to award the designation to an individual or not.

Insurance Agency Activities

HPO is licensed as an insurance agency in the state of Texas. Mr. Oakley is a licensed insurance agent in the state of Texas and have contracts and or appointments with various insurance companies. While Oxbow insurance agents do not actively market insurance products to our advisory clients, to the extent insurance products are purchased through the insurance agents by advisory clients, the insurance agents and HPO are paid a commission by the insurance company who issues the policy. This creates a conflict of interest because there is an incentive for the insurance agents to recommend insurance products based on the compensation received, rather than on your needs. Notwithstanding such conflict of interest, we do not generally utilize insurance products as a part of our portfolio recommendations and insurance marketing activities represent less than 1% of our overall financial services activities. Finally, to the extent insurance products are sold to an advisory client, we address our fiduciary duty by referring clients to an unaffiliated insurance agency and to prohibit any revenue earned therefrom, including referral fees, to be paid, either directly or indirectly, to any Oxbow Supervised Persons.

(See Oxbow Advisors LLC. Form ADV, Part 2A, Item 5 and Item 10 for additional conflict of interest disclosures available on the SEC’ Investment Adviser Public Disclosure site by typing or clicking on the following link: <https://adviserinfo.sec.gov/firm/summary/156393>)
